

☀️ nice to meet you!

I 'm Sandy

I was born in India, raised in Dubai. I hold Bachelors in Computer science and Post Graduation in Wireless Networking. I have been working in IT Industry for the past 13 years, began my career in IT Helpdesk, Transitioned to IT System Administration, and then to Business Analysis. For the past 8 years, I have worked as a solutions-driven Senior Business Analyst with Bell Media.

Fun fact about me- although I have been working in Media I actually don't watch TV! Apart from this, I love to read non-fiction books, have a keen interest in interior designing and traveling.

Last year, I realized how important it is to take care of yourself, take a moment to pause, and just reflect, embrace tiny moments in your life. I started doing things I always wanted to do but never had time for, like- meditation and yoga which really helped me to ground myself. I believe mental health matters and it is important to take care of yourself mentally, emotionally, and physically.

Although we won't be able to meet personally for now, however thanks to Hedy Lamarr and Vic Hayes (mother and father of wi-fi) we will be able to grab a coffee to get to know each other virtually. I am looking forward to meeting and working with you all!
